

ABSTRACT

An integrated device includes one or more device drivers and a micro-electro-mechanical system (MEMS) structure monolithically coupled to the one or more device drivers. The one or more device drivers are configured to process

5 received control signals and to transmit the processed control signals to the MEMS structure. Methods of fabricating integrated devices are also disclosed.